1. Qualitative Information on Quarterly Financial Performance

(1) Explanation of Results of Operations

In the first three months (November 21, 2023 to February 20, 2024) of the current fiscal year, the Japanese economy gradually recovered as economic activity normalized, the employment and income environment improved, and the Nikkei Stock Average chalked up significant gains. Despite these positive trends, the outlook for the economy remains uncertain. There is a downturn in overseas economies attributed to global monetary tightening and uncertainty about the Chinese economy's outlook, price increases driven by soaring costs of resources and raw materials, exacerbated by the yen's weakening trend, and geopolitical risks, stemming from prolonged Russia's aggression against Ukraine and instability in the Middle East.

In Japan's housing sector, there are concerns about the negative effect of the rising cost of building homes caused by inflation and high prices of building materials on consumer sentiment about buying a home. Construction starts for houses by owners and houses for sale, the main markets of Kitakei, have been declining year-on-year on a monthly basis, resulting in a difficult business climate. Moreover, it will be necessary to keep an eye on housing loan interest rate trends.

In this challenging business climate, activities continued for growth in the market for newly constructed houses. There are also numerous activities for growth in the renovation market, non-residential market and other market sectors by using skills involving sales of residences with construction included and logistics capabilities. The goals are to build stronger ties with current customers and add new customers. We also focused on further upgrading construction capabilities for the growth of construction sales and activities associated with construction. Another priority is increasing sales of environmental products, mainly solar power systems and storage batteries, and other original products. In addition to these sales initiatives, there are many activities for increasing the efficiency of business operations, such as the use of robotic process automation (RPA), for sales growth and higher earnings.

Sales in the first three months of the fiscal year were 15,131 million yen compared with 15,418 million yen one year earlier. Operating profit increased from 215 million yen to 267 million yen and ordinary profit increased from 262 million yen to 319 million yen. Profit was up from 164 million yen to 202 million yen.

(2) Explanation of Financial Position

Assets

Total assets decreased 629 million yen from the end of the previous fiscal year to 28,379 million yen as of the end of the first quarter. The main factor was a decrease of 855 million yen in notes and accounts receivable-trade, and contract assets, while there was an increase of 209 million yen in other under current assets.

Liabilities

Total liabilities decreased 521 million yen from the end of the previous fiscal year to 15,131 million yen as of the end of the first quarter. The main factors were decreases of 662 million yen in notes and accounts payable-trade, 293 million yen in other under current liabilities and 224 million yen in income taxes payable, while there were increases of 509 million yen in electronically recorded obligations-operating and 152 million yen in provision for bonuses.

Net assets

Total net assets decreased 107 million yen from the end of the previous fiscal year to 13,247 million yen as of the end of the first quarter. The main factor was a decrease of 135 million yen in retained earnings.

(3) Explanation of Non-consolidated Forecast and Other Forward-looking Statements

Segment and Other Information

Business segment information is omitted because Kitakei has only a single business segment and therefore there is no segment subject to disclosure requirements. Kitakei is engaged in the sale (including sales with installation) of materials and equipment used for homebuilding, such as new building materials and a variety of housing fixtures, and in activities associated with these sales. These products are sold to stores that sell wood products and building materials, construction companies, homebuilding companies and other buyers.
